

Louis Johnson Pledges United Service By U.S. Armed Forces

Washington, March 28 (AP)—Louis Johnson was sworn in today as Secretary of Defense and promised that the Army, Navy and Air Force "will be united as one in the service of the nation."

"The American people expect it and they shall have it," the 58-year-old Clarkburg, W. Va., attorney said shortly after taking over the office from retiring Secretary James V. Forrestal, a New York banker.

Forrestal, the nation's first defense secretary, had held the post since it was created by the armed services unification act passed in June, 1947. Prior to that he had served as Secretary of the Navy in cabinets of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and President Truman.

Colorful Ceremony
The colorful swearing-in ceremony was the most elaborate the capital ever has seen for installation of a cabinet officer. A crowd estimated at 15,000 watched as the oath was administered by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson in the open, five-acre center court of the Pentagon.

In a statement, Johnson outlined his aims in heading the defense establishment. He promised that: "Our defense policy will consist in mustering the maximum of strength, within the limits of our economy and our democracy, to make America secure by discouraging any potential aggressor."

He went on to say the three major branches of the armed services "will be united as one." Presumably he referred to inter-services differences that have existed among the three branches.

The People's Policy
Johnson's statement said:

"The size of the defense job we have is not of our choosing. It has been thrust on us by the tension of the world today. America is committed to defend its own national interest and the principles of world democracy. This is the President's foreign policy, to which both parties of the Congress have agreed and which the American people endorse. "Our defense policy will consist in mustering the maximum of strength, within the limits of our economy and our democracy, to back up that foreign policy and make America secure by discouraging any potential aggressor."

"Calmly Confident"

"To achieve that goal we shall attain the necessary measure of strength in all three branches of national defense. They will be united as one in the service of the nation. The American people expect it, and they shall have it. Behind the armed services are the people themselves. I know that I can count on the help of Congress, the press and all devoted Americans."

"With God's help and guidance we are determined that American youths will not again have to take part in the tragedy of a war."

"We want peace, if we can humanely get it with honor and freedom. But if there is aggression, we are calmly confident that we can stop it. In this faith I enter on this high office in the service of the nation."

PENMARVA NOW GOING CONCERN; PAPERS ON FILE

PenMarVa is now a going concern. M. E. Knouse, who was elected president of the fruit growers cooperative at an organization meeting March 10 said today the concern has confirmed its options on four plantings in this area, made down payments and is now operating them.

Thursday the members of the cooperative will meet to adopt by-laws and carry out other business connected with the organization. The articles of incorporation for the organization were filed today with the county register and recorder after approval of the incorporation had been signed by Governor Duff.

Consider Own Label

Under the articles of incorporation the cooperative has the right to sell $3,000,000 worth of stock and can, if needed, borrow up to $5,000,000.

The plants on which it holds option are the National Fruit plants at Peach Glen and Chambersburg; the Ortanna Canning company and the Chambersburg cooperative plant. Approximately $1,500,000 was the price paid for the National Fruit plants and approximately $500,000 for the Ortanna Canning company plant. The Chambersburg cooperative is being secured without any cash consideration, the change-over being made by transfer of stock to the Chambersburg cooperative members.

Whether the cooperative will sell its products under a PenMarVa label has not as yet been decided. Mr. Knouse said today. The plants will be able to handle about 2,500,000 bushels of apples a year in addition to cherries, tomatoes and other farm products.

LITTLESTOWN

DR. PUTMAN IS GUEST MINISTER

The Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putman, Harrisburg, former pastor of Christ Lutheran church, Gettysburg, and now president of the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran Church, was guest preacher at the union service Sunday evening in Redeemer's Reformed church, Littlestown, sponsored by the Littlestown Ministerium. Dr. Putman's theme was, "Facing Jerusalem." He said: "We should see at least two purposes in Good Friday: first, the love of God expressed in his never ending sacrifices for a sinful world and, secondly, our recognition of our part in the cross. The crucifixion was not simply engineered by the Jewish people of that day, but it takes place in all generations. Therefore, we should recognize our need for God's saving love given in spite of man's rebellion."

The host pastor, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, was in charge of the service. The Rev. David S. Krammer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, read a part of St. Luke 18 as the scripture lesson and made the announcements. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Kenneth D. James, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, who introduced the speaker. Miss Shirley Gobrecht presided at the organ and led the congregational singing. The choir sang, "In the Hour of Trial" by Stickles with the solo by Stewart Long.

These union services will close for this season next Sunday evening when the service will be held in St. Paul's Lutheran church. Arrangements for this closing service are in charge of the Rev. John C. Brumbaugh, pastor of Christ and St. Luke's Reformed churches, and the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church. In (Please turn to Page 8)

NEWLY STOCKED WILD TURKEYS ARE THRIVING

A number of wild turkeys, released under the supervision of Game Protector Leo Bushman in Adams county on March 4, are reported doing well in their new habitat, and are expected in time to provide hunters with a return of wild turkey shooting such as has not been seen here in many years.

A total of 810 mature, swift, and crafty wild turkeys, including 202 toms and 608 hens, were released in Division "D" of the Pennsylvania Game Commission's territory, which includes Adams and nine other south-central counties of the state. These augment wild turkeys previously released. The birds were raised at the state wild turkey farm at Montoursville.

Enforcing Game Laws
"The wild turkey," according to game officials, "is not only difficult but expensive to rear in captivity. Great emphasis is placed on rearing them for release this time of year primarily to re-establish them in suitable locations and permit the birds to reproduce themselves."

Since their release on March 4, the birds have been provided with corn three times a week by the game protector. Cooperation of local sportsmen is solicited in protecting and perpetuating the wild turkeys, and any infractions of the game laws promptly reported will be followed by swift action, Bushman said. "We cannot tolerate the unlawful killing of game, especially during the breeding season," he said.

ASSERTS PARK RIGHTS INVADED

A spokesman for the Park Service here said that "alien developments" mentioned by Director Drury of the National Park Service, in his annual report, referred to "private developments" in, on or near the battlefield over a period of years.

These developments, it was explained, include tourist camps and cabins, service stations, junk yards, residential developments and others within the original boundary of the National Park.

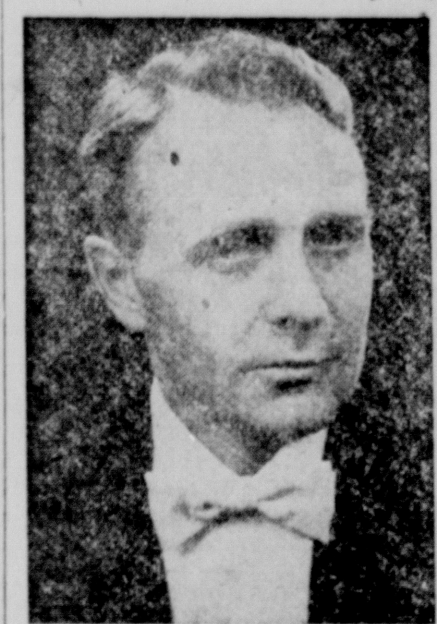

Washington, March 28 (AP)—There has been increasing pressure in the past year to break down the government's national park policies and standards, says National Park Service Director Newton B. Drury.

Half Million Members Of UMW Return To Pits Today

Pittsburgh, March 28 (AP)—Nearly a half-million members of the United Mine Workers union returned to the coal pits today.

They acted on orders of John L. Lewis, blunt-talking and quick-acting president of the UMW who called a two-week work stoppage March 14.

As the deadline for the return-to-work movement was reached at 12:01 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) today, the few mines having midnight shifts reported "operations normal."

By the end of the day all 463,000 miners who quit at Lewis' orders are expected to be on the job. Throughout the soft and hard coal fields UMW lieutenants were unanimous that Lewis' orders would be followed to the letter.

Among the first major mines reporting midnight shifts coming in full-strength was the Isabella mine near Brownsville in Fayette county,

Students Fined For "Thumbing" Rides

Six students of Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, arrested at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, on charges of attempting to "thumb" rides from passing motorists, later paid fines of $2 and costs each to Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore, after waiting in the squire's office for another student to drive here from Emmitsburg with the necessary funds.

A complaint was received from a Steinwehr avenue resident that the six students were standing on her porch. Authorities said the men also were abusive to motorists who failed to stop for them. Police gave the names of the six as Donald P. Winslow, William M. Turnbaugh, Frank R. Posey, Owens J. Shields, John P. Van Curn and William P. Donovan.

SPEAKER SAYS CHRISTIANS ARE DIFFERENT

"There is a desperate need today for Christians who stand for something different than the rank and file," Dr. S. Paul Schilling, professor of systematic theology at the Westminster Theological seminary, Westminster, Md., said in a sermon here on the Methodist-Presbyterian Sunday Evening Hour.

Speaking on the theme "Does It Make Any Difference?" Doctor Schilling, who formerly served a large Methodist church in Washington, D. C., stated: "The world places a premium on conformity and uniformity, and that tendency is commendable and useful to a degree but in moral and spiritual fields when the average level becomes the standard then we are in great difficulty."

Speaks At College

"There are too many people in our churches today who are no different through the week than those who make no pretense of church connections. A Christian ought to be different, not just for the sake of being different, but because of Christ. He ought to be marked off by his Christian faith in his average, day by day living."

Dr. Schilling concluded his address by indicating these ways in which Christians should be different: "A Christian should be very different by placing spiritual things above the material. They seek to lay up treasure not on earth but in heaven. They love others as much as themselves. They place God first rather than man. The world defines 'god' as wealth, power, science, education. The Christian gives each its place in the scheme of things but places God first. And finally, Christians are marked by faith, not fear."

The Revs. Clyde R. Brown and Floyd A. Carroll conducted the service. Guest soloist was Harry Koch of Gettysburg college. The service was held in the Presbyterian church.

Dr. Schilling spoke this morning at Gettysburg college chapel services on "Beliefs Do Matter."

WOLF-CRAMER WEDDING HELD

EGYPT'S FORMER EMPRESS WEDS FOR 2ND TIME

By ALBURN D. WEST
Cairo, March 28 (AP)—Princess Fawzia, the beautiful former Empress of Iran, was married today to Ismail Shirine Bey, a distant relative of Egypt's royal family.

The marriage was the second for the 30-year-old princess, who is the sister of Egypt's King Farouk. She had been married to the Shah of Iran until he divorced her last November. She had borne no son to inherit the Iranian throne.

Today's ceremony was a simple Moslem one and strictly private.

The royal cabinet announced the wedding had taken place in a special official ceremony.

Bride Absent
"By Alla's will and with the guidance of His light and under the care of (King) Farouk," the statement said, "the great marriage of Princess Fawzia x x x to Ismail Shirine Bey x x x has taken place."

Ancient custom called for the bride to be absent from her own wedding. Throughout the ceremony she remained in her own suite at Kouba palace. Sheikh Mamoun El Shinaua, rector of thousand-year-old Al Azhar University and the spiritual leader of the world's Moslems, performed the ancient rites.

King Farouk, himself, as the head of the family, represented Princess Fawzia in the ceremonies in the palace's grand salon.

Strange Ceremony
Traditionally, the bridegroom and the representatives of the bride sit face to face with joined hands covered by a white handkerchief.

The rector puts his hands over the joined hands and asks the representative of the bride: "Do you agree to the marriage of your sister (in this case) to this man?"

After the affirmative reply, the rector asks the bridegroom if he will take the woman as his wife. The ceremony is complete with the signing of a marriage contract.

A royal luncheon at the palace followed the ceremony for the wedding party and members of the two families.

EUROPEANS NOT LEARNING OF ERP

Washington, March 28 (AP)—Senator Bridges (R-NH) complained today that sabotage and Communist propaganda prevent Europeans from knowing what America is doing for them under the multi-billion dollar recovery program.

As congressional leaders brought pressure for early Senate passage of the $5,580,000,000 authorization for the economic cooperation administration, Bridges said he and Senator McCarran (D-Nev) would demand tightening of two phases of the foreign aid program:

1. Rigid requirements that all foods, machinery, supplies and raw materials be conspicuously labelled to show they come from the vast ECA program financed by the United States. This is in line with demands under previous relief programs that U. S. shipments carry a "made in America" label.

2. Closer inspection "on the spot" in Europe of actual use of goods, materials and supplies to see that this use is in line with plans and intentions.

The Bridges-McCarran amendments were added to a stack of other proposed changes and speeches. Together, all these may upset plans of Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois for Senate passage early this week. Lucas had hoped to have the multi-billion dollar authorization out of the way last week-end but Republican Floor Leader Wherry of Nebraska said it will be Wednesday or later before that happens.

A motion picture, "My Name Is Hans," will also be shown. Women of the Arendtsville-Biglerville Reformed church and of St. Mark's Reformed church, Two Taverns, will be guests. Tea will be served during the social hour, following the program.

Paris, March 28 (AP)—Interior Minister Jules Moch, a Socialist, said today France has taken a "swing to the right" in the Cantonal (county) elections, in which the Communists took a licking.

The Cantonal elections ended yesterday. Final results showed that 133 Communist incumbents were defeated and only 34 Communist incumbents were returned to office. The parties making up the middle-of-the-road coalition government swamped both Communists and the De Gaullists of the extreme right.

In Socialist ranks, 150 incumbents were defeated and only 279 of 429 former office holders were returned to their jobs. Socialists have been left of center, but have not been travelling with the Communists. Popular vote figures were not released for the present. Last week, in the first round of Cantonal elections, Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RFP) carried about 28 per cent of the popular vote, more than any other single party, and it appeared the De Gaullists continued that trend yesterday.

The parties making up the present government won 1,082 seats to 389 for the De Gaullists and 37 for the Communists. 99 seats went to independents.

The De Gaullists, however, won more seats than any single party.

The election was for general councillors who help run the departments—roughly equivalent to American states. It has no effect on Parliament or the cabinet, but was important chiefly as an indication of popular feeling. However, there was no voting in Paris, where the Communist vote is generally large.

It is difficult to compare this balloting with the last Cantonal election in 1945. At that time the Communists were included in the government and the De Gaullists had not yet formed their own party—the Rally of the French People (RFP).

ARRAIGN YOUTH IN MURDER CASE

Milwaukee, March 28 (AP)—Milton Babich, 19, faced arraignment today on a charge that he murdered Patricia Birmingham, 16, about five weeks before he eloped with her sister.

Dist. Atty. William McCauley quoted Babich as saying Patricia was killed because he feared she would tell her parents that her sister, Kathleen, 17, was pregnant.

Chief Defense Counsel Arthur Richter said Babich will demand preliminary hearing and will plead innocent to the first degree murder charge.

McCauley said Babich signed a lengthy statement Saturday in which he admitted killing Patricia, February 10, the day she disappeared on her way home from school. Richter said Babich told him he had made the statements attributed to him in the document, but denied he had signed it.

Babich and Kathleen were on the third day of their honeymoon, March 21, when Patricia's body was found by firemen who were dragging the Milwaukee river for a suicide victim.

YORK TO MEET RADNOR HI FOR EASTERN TITLE

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—Four hopeful Class A schoolboy quintets stand today at the threshold of the PIAA state championship.

The regional finals tomorrow night—only one step from the state title game—feature four teams which have waged a three-month struggle to obtain their lofty position as the class of Pennsylvania high school basketball.

The race comes to a climax Saturday night in Philadelphia's Convention Hall as tomorrow night's regional champions battle it out for state-wide laurels.

The eastern classic pits together York and Radnor at the Penn palatium in Philadelphia while Alliquippa and Sharpville meet for western honors at Farrell.

Win In Extra Period
Radnor reached the eastern finals by edging Old Forge in an overtime contest Saturday night, 34 to 28. The extra period saw Guard sink three straight baskets to snap a 13-game win streak for the District 2 titlists.

I was an uphill fight for the District 1 Raiders who earlier in the month eliminated Norristown's defending state champions. Old Forge led at halftime, 19 to 14.

The Raiders' opponents tomorrow night will be the classy York White Roses, representing District 3. The Roses turned back Whitehall last Wednesday to gain the eastern berth. Only a mid-season loss to Reading mars their record.

The western finale at Farrell sends unbeaten Alliquippa against a scrappy Sharpville five. The Quipmen were forced to come from behind Saturday night to defeat Westmont, District 6 representative, 47 to 40. Sharpville turned back Bradford, 39 to 20.

Quips Face Sharpville
Alliquippa puts a 27-game winning streak on the line against Sharpville tomorrow night. The Quipmen romped through the WPAL to take the District 7 crown and then eliminated Somerset before tangling with Sharpville.

Their opponents won the District 10 title and defeated South Hills, District 8, before Saturday's trouncing of the Bradford Owls.

On the Class B front, another four teams are preparing for Wednesday's regional finals.

Ashley, like Alliquippa, boasts a 27-game winning streak and seems to be the class of the schools with enrollments under 500 pupils. The District 2 champions meet Kutztown, District 3, in a contest scheduled for the Ashland high school court.

Ashley downed Montoursville with ease Friday night while Kutztown edged Prospect Park.

Everett, District 5, and Kane, District 9, vie for western honors at State College to complete the regional finals. Everett topped Oakmont by one point Friday night while Kane was enjoying a bye.

The winner of these two games will advance to the state title clash Tuesday, April 1, at a site, somewhere in the west, to be determined after Wednesday's games.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 28 (AP)—Word from the south as spring training reaches the point where you can tell something about the clubs is "don't be too optimistic about the Cardinals. Except for Stan Musial, Enos Slaughter and Harry Brecheen they're second division stuff."

The point seems to be that they have no reliable catcher, first baseman and center fielder and there's an iffy infield, depending on the health of Marion, Schoendienst and Kuroski. . . . The same observers aren't too high on the Braves, who haven't changed much since last year, and figure the youthful, hustling Dodgers are the team to watch.

At least Branch Rickey has plenty of material at Vero Beach. . . . They say the place now looks like a huge department store and the boys are wondering if Branch will adopt the slogan: "Six per cent off for cash."

NAMES DEPT.
An eyebrow-raising name for a two-year-old filly nominated for the debutante stakes at Churchill Downs is Breachpromise. She's by Lovely Night out of Forgotten Lady.

Another smartly-named juvenile is Greentree stable's three and two — by Shut Out-wait for Baby. . . . Of course, any baseball fan should know that three and two is when you look for the cripple.

HE OUGHTA BE CANNED
The day before the Philadelphia Warriors' first playoff game Joe Pulks went out, like any good husband, to empty a pale of garbage. But Joe skidded and fell down a flight of stairs. . . . It wasn't until four o'clock the next afternoon that he decided he had been hurt and called Boss Eddie Gottlieb to say he couldn't play. . . . Eddie summoned a doctor, who took three stitches in a cut on Joe's hip and did what he could about a large bruise. . . . That night Pulks played only a minute and a half against Washington and, for the first time in his pro basketball career, failed to take a shot. . . . The moral is that an accident with a garbage can can make a lot of fans turn pale.

Clearwater, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Eddie Sawyer, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, found some consolation in the Phils' 5-1 loss to the Boston Red Sox yesterday.

The Phillies infield played sparkling ball, particularly first baseman Eddie Waitkus and shortstop Gran Hamner. Waitkus made a difficult stop of a grounder from the bat of Birdie Tebbets to prevent a rally in the fourth inning and Hamner cut off another possible spurt in the first with a great stop.

Havana, Fla., March 28 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics picked up a couple of ball players on their Cuban excursion.

The A's new players are Luis Gardia, 19-year-old center fielder who will be sent to the A's farm club at Savannah, Ga., and Gilberto Torres, infielder formerly with the Washington Senators.

Torres, reportedly bought for less than the $10,000 draft price, will be used as a utility man with the parent club.

San Bernardino, Calif., March 28 (AP)—Hugh Casey, the old fireman from Brooklyn, should be a big help to the Pittsburgh Pirates pitching staff, says Manager Billy Meyer.

Though disappointed in the 7-7, 12-inning tie with the St. Louis Browns yesterday, Meyer was more than pleased with the way Casey held the American leaguers scoreless. He gave up only two hits, both singles, in working the last four innings.

NCAA TITLE WON BY KENTUCKIANS

Seattle, March 29 (AP)—Alex Broza basketball's magic mountain—and his spellbinding Kentucky teammates worked their sorcery on Oklahoma A. & M. as they captured their second straight NCAA championship Saturday.

Before an overflow crowd of 12,500 at the University of Washington's Edmundson pavilion, Coach Auloph Rupp's hoopers outglopped and outshot the valiant Aggies, 46-36.

Earlier in the evening, hard-driving Illinois mounted a powerful late-game surge to edge Oregon State college, 57-53, and snatch third place in the tournament.

In the keenly awaited clash between offense and defense, Coach Henry Iba's gifted shackle-makers were able to fit handcuffs for all the Wildcats but Groza. The 6-foot-7-inch center rammed in 25 points.

However, before fouling out five minutes before the final gun. And Bob Harris, the equally altitudinous Aggie pivotman, fouled out early in the second half trying to truss him up.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOOLS

I have been reading a most beautifully written book with little spots of sound sense and philosophy tucked in—and it put a glow to my mind. The book is called "Northern Farm, A Chronicle of Maine," by Henry Beston.

Here is one of the sentences from this book that attracted me: "We may have the best intentions in the world, but if we sharpen our pencils, with a dull knife or build a house with a faulty rule, the pencil will be badly sharpened and the house will have an odd little way of opening doors by itself and leaning to one side."

You can always judge the workmanship of a person by noting the kind of tools he uses. I have watched carpenters, and the good ones are always known by their tools, which are sharp, sturdy, and kept in the best of shape. They want no one else to use them. They are a part, somehow, of themselves.

This idea of good tools and good work is what gives satisfaction and permanence, and these can be gained in no other way. Dull tools produce poor work. The finest instruments, for any work, are the cheapest. The finest toned musical instrument is the one that has been made of the best possible materials, and by the most expert workman with the finest tools.

Another thing about fine tools is that they accomplish most in the shortest time. They are exacting and efficient in the hands of those who know how to use them. I have examined the tools that the ether uses, and the tools that a maker of beautiful bindings uses. They are of the best workmanship. They have to be. When the surgeon takes a human life into his hands he must have tools that match his skill.

The Creator has endowed each one of us with the tools for a successful and happy life. He has given to use a mind; hands, eyes, ears, and the power of voice and speech. What we do with them all is what measures out our worth in the world. Self education is everything. We are architects of our own fate. We can be about what we choose to be—and will to be!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "On Being Challenged"

BOYS

There are men our glorious country will be needing later on. At the moment, they are youngsters and their names are known to none.

They possess the seeds of greatness; they're equipped for life complete. But they'll miss the way to manhood if we leave them to the street.

They are full of fun and mischief there are twinkles in their eyes. From their numbers in the future some to fame will surely rise.

But they need our friendly coaching for the tasks they're going to meet. And it isn't safe to leave them to hazards of the street.

They'll be doctors, lawyers, preachers with a little friendly aid. With encouragement and training they'll bring skill to every trade.

We can fit them for the future; on the right path set their feet. But we'll throw away their talents if we leave them to the street.

Mr. Pocht's essay was a finely written production.

'WORLD PEACE' PARLEY ENDS ON PRAISE FOR USSR

By JOHN H. WINANT

New York, March 28 (AP)—With a promise to continue its work in the future and with a salvo of praise for Soviet "peace" aims, the controversial "World Peace" conference has ended.

The three-day meeting of the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace closed last night. Some 18,700 persons jammed Madison Square Garden to cheer its last session—but other thousands picketed and jeered outside.

Speakers at the session, called a "Unite For World Peace" rally, struck a general note of praise for Soviet "peace" aspirations—asserting that leaders of the U.S.S.R. are anti-war and anxious for global peace.

Picketed Constantly

Outside the Garden, a police-estimated crowd of 2,000 pickets milled about as the rally opened. They carried placards assailing the conference and chanted slogans charging it was Communist-dominated.

The U. S. State Department had described the affair as a sounding board for Communist propaganda. Sponsors of the meeting, the National Council of the Arts, Sciences and Professions, have denied the charge.

Counter-rallies and anti-Communist protest groups denounced the conference, and almost constant picketing went on while it held its sessions at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, Carnegie hall and the Garden.

"Our Country, The Soviet Union" As the affair ended, delegates stamped approval on resolutions that call for strengthening the United Nations, cooperating with peace movements throughout the world and bringing to the attention of United States governmental arms the decisions of the conferees.

A special action committee was set up to consider specific recommendations to carry out the resolutions. Dr. Allen M. Butler, of the Harvard Medical school, a member of this group, said it would meet today.

A. A. Fadeyev, chief Russian delegate and noted Soviet author, won loud applause from the Garden's capacity audience last night with an assertion that "our country, the Soviet Union, stands for peace and friendship among peoples, because we are first and foremost a state of plain people." Other speakers echoed his theme.

Says Czechs Love USSR

Domingo Villamil, a Cuban scholar who said he is a Roman Catholic Communist, denounced those who he claimed "are encircling the Soviet Union and hatching a third world war."

A Czechoslovakian delegate, Jiri Hronek, head of that nation's mass communications, division, said Czechoslovakians "love the Soviet Union, which they regard as a guarantor of peace, progress and national independence."

While the conference was ending its work, a rival group, the League for Free Russia held a counter-rally and adopted a resolution condemning the peace meeting.

About 700 persons met at City Center Casino and adopted a resolution which said Soviet delegates to the sessions "have no right to speak in the name of science and culture since they are agents of states where unheard-of suppression and violation of the freedom of the sciences, the arts and all cultural values are being carried on."

The league, which said it is a coalition of various Russian exile groups in America, also assailed delegates "from free countries, who, for reasons best known to themselves, have joined the chorus of totalitarian slaves."

BATS FORECAST WARM WEATHER

(By The Associated Press)

If Pennsylvania's bats are reliable prophets, it looks like the warm weather is here to stay.

Of the 10 species of bats found in the commonwealth, some hibernate and the rest fly south for the winter months. Not until the warm weather seems firmly entrenched do they appear in the night skies.

Last night, bats were reported in Philadelphia where the mercury hit a near-record 79 yesterday.

That figure marked the hottest day in the Quaker city since last September 29 when the temperature rose to 80. The balmy weather sent thousands to parks, seashore resorts and the mountains.

The weatherman said that afternoon cloudiness kept the mercury from rising even higher at Philadelphia. The record for March 27 was 83 degrees set in 1921.

PENN STATE WINS DEBATE

Washington, Pa., March 28 (AP)—Penn State college debaters today held the championship of the second annual Washington & Jefferson college debating tournament. Penn State won the event Saturday by defeating West Virginia university in the finals. Penn State took the affirmative on the questions: "Resolved, that the federal government should adopt a policy equalizing education opportunities in tax supported schools by means of annual grants."

Oil Substation Blast Hurts Two

Lehighton, Pa., March 28 (AP)—The cause of an explosion and fire at an oil company substation near Lehighton is a mystery today with the two people who might know the answer in critical condition at Palmerton hospital.

The blast, described by Farmer David Green as sounding "like a rifle shot," ripped the frame roof off the substation of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. yesterday and destroyed machinery and pumping equipment which was still under construction.

It also broke open a pipeline carrying gasoline from the company's plant at Paulsboro, N. J., to Binghamton, N. Y. Gasoline caught fire and blazed fiercely.

The fire started shortly before noon yesterday and was not brought under control for four hours. Embers continued to burn hours later.

ADMINISTRATION IS STRIPPED OF MILITARY MEN

(By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER)

Washington, March 28 (AP)—The Truman administration is now virtually stripped of the military men who once played important roles in the nation's foreign policy.

President Truman apparently did not plan it that way, despite the often severe criticism levelled at him during his first term for the "military influence" which some columnists and lawmakers saw in U.S. foreign affairs.

It has been a series of resignations, most of which he accepted reluctantly, which has substantially changed the character of Mr. Truman's team of advisors on international matters.

The latest came Friday when Admiral D. Leahy, 73, retired as a member of the President's White House staff and Gen. Walter Bedell Smith quit one of the nation's most important diplomatic assignments, that of ambassador to Moscow.

Leahy, who during the war was U.S. envoy to Vichy, France, was Mr. Truman's chief of staff. In the early days of the administration, he reportedly played a large part in developing this nation's "tough" policy toward Russia.

The resignations started in January when the ailing Gen. George C. Marshall quit as secretary of state and was replaced by Dean Acheson, an attorney and former state department official.

At the same time Robert A. Lovett was succeeded as undersecretary by Budget Director James E. Webb.

Denounced Here And Abroad Secretary of Defense James Forrester's resignation is effective at the end of this month.

Forrester will be replaced by Louis Johnson, an attorney and former commander of the American Legion. The charge in this country that the President was relying too heavily on men with military backgrounds was more than matched by a barrage of propaganda from Moscow.

The Russians denounced alike those who advocated American rearmament and those who in any other way contributed to the development of a firm policy toward the Soviet union and its efforts to spread Communism over the world.

DESIGNATES DAYS

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—Gov. James H. Duff has called on Pennsylvanians to mark Sunday, May 1, as "Americanism Day," and Sunday, May 15, as "I Am An American Day." The governor designated the two days in a proclamation wherein he asked all schools, colleges, organizations and the general public to join in appropriate ceremonies on the two days.

LEGISLATURE STARTS DOWN HOME STRETCH

By L. U. LESLIE

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—Pennsylvania's 1949 session of the General Assembly started down the home stretch today.

Legislative leaders are driving for a mid-April adjournment but sessions for a couple of days may be necessary the week of April 18 to tie loose ends together.

The legislative situation as the week opened:

Taxes. The House and Senate are deadlocked on a Senate proposal to allow brewers and distributors a $2-300,000 discount for breakage from the beer tax of a half cent a pint. The next move is up to the Senate.

Senate Votes On Bridges

Toll bridges. House-passed bills eventually to free the state's last 10 toll bridges through use of a $10-000,000 bond issue are expected to be reported this week from the Senate Highways committee. For a Senate vote.

Housing. The administration program for a $15,000,000 state subsidy to develop a $50,000,000 of low-rent housing units may be amended in the House to permit local communities to use its share of the subsidy for slum clearance. The Senate has yet to act.

Workers' benefits. The House has approved legislation to increase from $30 to $25 weekly maximum benefit to under the workmen's and unemployment compensation and occupational disease laws. The Senate is considering a further raise, especially in workmen's compensation benefits.

The problem of federal rent control may also come before the legislature, depending on developments in Congress on a bill giving cities, with approval of the Governor, authority to remove rent controls.

Truck Bill In Doubt

Administration and legislative leaders watched developments at Washington closely but declined to predict and possible state action until the new Federal Rent Control act is finally enacted. There are, in addition, many other legislative problems which may come to a head or fail for lack of action.

They include amendments to the local tax law, increasing the weights of commonly-used trucks on Pennsylvania highways, and creation of a fair employment practices commission.

The 1947 local tax law, that permits municipalities and school districts to impose levies on anything not taxed by the state, has been the subject of much behind-scenes discussions throughout the session.

ARMY TESTING WONDER DRUG

Detroit, March 28 (AP)—Scientists have found a way to manufacture the wonder drug chloromycetin and the United States Army is putting the new product to test in Malaya.

Natural Chloromycetin, derived from a mold in the soil, has been found effective in combatting killer diseases like epidemic and scrub typhus fevers and Rock Mountain spotted fever.

Now, the Parke, Davis and company has announced here, the recently discovered drug can be produced synthetically by a method much faster than the natural process.

Park, Davis Research Director Leonard A. Sweet reported the work done on artificial chloromycetin by two teams of research chemists means the drug "can be produced in sufficient quantities to meet all the needs of the medical profession."

Warns Uninspected Nurseries Unsafe

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—The State Agriculture department today cautioned against buying from uninspected nurseries.

"Stock from uninspected nurseries may carry serious insect pests and plant diseases," said Dr. A. B. Champlain, principal entomologist in charge of nursery inspection in the Bureau of Plant Industry.

"See that the nursery or the selling agency has a certificate showing the stock has passed state inspection," he urged all buyers. "This certificate should accompany all shipments of nursery stock and must be posted in a conspicuous place at the selling point."

NEW SENATOR TO TAKE OATH

Washington, March 28 (AP)—The administration may pick up a new vote for its substitute for the Taft-Hartley Labor act when Dr. Frank P. Graham takes the oath this week as a Senator from North Carolina.

Graham comes to the Senate from the Presidency of the University of North Carolina with about the warmest welcome that a president of the United States could give a newcomer. Graham has said he expects to give "general" support to White House proposals.

President Truman's praise for Graham last week as a great American and a great citizen apparently was calculated to offset questions raised by Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) and others. Bricker contended an atomic commission loyalty review board had refused to clear Graham to receive classified atomic information. Bricker said the board later was disbanded.

Graham, who heads the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, was defended by Senators Hoyer (D-N.C.), McMahon (D-Conn.), Pepper (D-Fla.) and Morse (R-Ore.), who said there was no question of his loyalty.

Graham will have the opportunity to discuss the matter in the Senate himself, after he has taken the oath, probably tomorrow. Bricker and others said they intend to raise no question about seating the North Carolinian.

MORE BITS OF PLANE FOUND

Henderson, N. Y., March 28 (AP)—Bits of a plane carrying a Pennsylvanian and an Elmira, N. Y., man washed up on the shore near here but U. S. Army air rescue squadrons report no success in locating the major portions of the craft.

The plane has been identified as that in which Harry G. Barenbrugge, 45, of Elmira and Stuart N. Johnson, 41, of Mansfield, Pa., were flying when they disappeared March 16 on a flight from Buffalo to Montreal. The plane is believed to have crashed in Lake Ontario.

Sheriff Brayton E. Peck of Jefferson county said the wreckage picked up yesterday was small bits of wood and fabric from the plane. He expressed the belief the plane may have cracked up when it struck the water or possibly an ice floe in the lake.

Units of the 2151st Air Rescue Squadron from Selfridge Field, Mich., joined the search yesterday and renewed their efforts today. Lieut. Charles Ferguson said. Two thunder squalls and poor visibility yesterday hampered work of the planes.

Plato, who was the first to draw the distinction between mind and body, can probably be called the father of psychology.

VEGETABLE SEED DISINFECTION

In principle seed disinfection is but one of several necessary steps to prevent destructive diseases of garden crops. This particular step is aimed primarily at control of disease organisms residing on or in the seeds. Of course, seed disinfection will not overcome diseases already in the soil or lurking in old diseased crop refuse left in the garden from the previous year. It will not prevent contamination from weeds allowed to flourish in or near the garden and thereby serve as "host" plants. It will not take the place of sanitation to prevent disease transmission in contaminated seed bed soil, in coldframes or by other direct means. There are, in fact, numerous important steps in reducing disease ravages in the vegetable garden of which seed disinfection is one but an important one. Here are a few brief suggestions in disinfecting seeds:

One of the better ways to prevent damping-off of seedling plants is to treat seed with Semasan just before sowing. Follow directions accompanying the package for each particular kind of seed. Do not use Semasan to treat lettuce seed or Lima beans.

To reduce black rot, black leg and alternaria blight of cabbage, broccoli, and Brussels sprouts, treat seed by the hot-water method, although the mercuric treatment mill curb black rot alone.

The mercuric chloride treatment is recommended for control of anthracnose, scab, and angular leaf spot of cucumbers, cantaloupes, pumpkins, and squashes.

Use of seed two years old or older, properly tested for germination, is advised for reducing late blight of celery.

Disinfection in a 1:2000 solution of mercuric chloride will help curb dangers of bacterial spot and bacterial canker sometimes carried on tomato seed.

It is never safe to guess about methods of seed disinfection. Readers with any questions of this subject should write the editor in advance of the time the information is to be put into action.

Mercuric chloride is a dangerous poison. It should be handled with extreme care, always mixed and used in glass, wooden or earthenware vessels, never in metal. Treated seed not needed for planting should be burned or buried deeply. Of course, no poison dangers are transmitted to the growing crop.

Most seeds for which the mercuric chloride treatment is recommended are soaked for 5 to 15 minutes in a 1:1000 solution and then drained and washed thoroughly. Most directions call for washing soaked seed 15 minutes in cold running water and then drying before sowing.

Adams County Farm And Garden Section

For Beauty And Abundance Lay Out Garden This Way

Most home gardeners will agree that even a flower border is no more beautiful than a precisely laid-out vegetable plot, with crops growing in straight parallel rows, squared with plot boundaries, without a weed to be seen.

Not only beauty, but efficiency is gained by such a layout. One quick trip with a wheel hoe down the straight aisle between two rows will destroy hundreds of weed sprouts, in a fraction of the time required to cultivate a disorderly garden.

Rows should be spaced with varying distances between them, depending on two factors. The needs of the crop, and the conveniences of cultivation. In rich soil vegetables may be spaced more closely than in poor; but when spaced too close together, it is difficult to cultivate between the rows.

Crops growing twelve inches tall or less may be spaced 16 inches to a foot apart if cultivated with hand tools. For a wheel hoe, eighteen inches is likely to be found a minimum distance to avoid disturbing the roots of the vegetable.

Taller vegetables, and those that make vines, large bushes, or have a sprawling habit, must be given more distance between rows. In small gardens, 4 feet will usually be the maximum distance, given only for such crops as bush squash and cucumbers.

After you know where the rows are to be, a line should be stretched to mark the first row.

Some gardeners use a straight, narrow board as a ruler to mark the row. A heavy cord wound on an iron reel is handy, but any strong cord stretched between two stakes will do.

Using the corner of a hoe, draw in the soft soil a shallow trench with this line as a guide. This is known as a drill. Some prefer to use the end of the hoe handle rather than the corner of the blade. Others have small hoes which they like; but it is more a matter of touch than the tool.

For small seeds such as radishes, onions, carrots, lettuce, and endive, a drill half an inch deep is enough. A little deeper for beets and Swiss chard, and an inch for peas, beans and sweet corn will be sufficient. Shallow sowing is preferred nowadays in the cool, moist spring, but make drills a little deeper when hot weather comes.

MAGNOLIA IS POPULAR TREE

No other flowering tree commands as much attention as the saucer magnolia (M. soulangeana) when spring arrives. This is a hybrid originated near Paris years ago. There are seven varieties, differing from one another in habit of growth, vigor and the coloring of the flowers, except for a pure white one, they combine white or cream with various shades of purple.

Although this species is hardy at least as far north as Massachusetts the flower display may succumb to an unexpected late frost just when it is at its height. Just when it is taken into consideration when planting because a sheltered location may protect against this disappointment.

The plants are inclined to branch from the ground up so that young specimens have the form of large shrubs rather than trees. Eventually they may grow as tall as thirty feet. Even young plants bloom freely, bearing large, cup-shaped flowers measuring from four to six inches in diameter.

With no foliage to hide them they are a magnificent sight which may last a week or even longer if the weather remains reasonably cool but free from frost. Because of their tendency to grow almost as broad as tall, especially while still fairly young, ample space should be allowed for full development and that is the reason why they are used principally for lawn specimens.

They seldom need pruning, but if they do, June is the time. They are attractive plants all the year round with large leaves which cast mod-

FLOWERS BEST FOR FRONT YARD OF LOW HOUSE

For a one-story house set two steps above the ground level, a planting of flowers along the foundation line is an ideal solution of the front yard planting problem.

Where shrubs or evergreens would soon grow so tall as to screen the windows, and make the house appear lower than it is, flowers will remain at a desirable height, and present a band of attractive color at the base of the house.

The simply designed small house now being built need an attractive frame, such as the flowers would provide. Its effect will be heightened if the colors of the flowers create shade during the summer and fall and an attractive pattern of branches.

harmonize with the colors of the house and its trim.

A suggested planting uses white and blue flowers. This combination will harmonize with any other colors. It will be especially attractive with a buff or light yellow house, but will also be excellent with red brick, and gray. White petunias are in some ways the most desirable of their race, and may be depended upon to produce their flowers abundantly throughout the summer.

Sweet alyssum is equally free blooming, as well as fragrant. If it shows signs of age in midsummer, it can be sheared like a hedge, and will soon be blooming again at a youthful rate. Myosotis is the true forget-me-not, growing just enough taller than the alyssum to register as a band of blue.

A fashion for dooryard gardens, to take the place of trees and shrubbery in front yards, is spreading through the country. It is based on the feeling that too much shade has been the rule in the past. Modern architecture demands that sunshine be admitted freely, not only to the outside, but also to the inside of the house through the increased use of glass. Flowers in the front yard reveal in the sunshine, and cast no shade to the detriment of the house and lawn.

Iran Demands Reds Free Two Soldiers

Tehran, Iran, March 28 (AP)—Iran has demanded that Russia release two Iranian soldiers reported wounded and captured by Soviet troops in a frontier incident.

The report indicated increased tension between the two countries. Iran previously banned the Tudeh (Communist) party.

A high military source said one Iranian soldier was killed in the border incident. He said the Iranian commander protested to Soviet authorities and demanded return of the prisoners. Negotiations for their release and payment of indemnity is reported under way.

Fabulous Odds Paid In Grand National

Aintree, England, March 28 (AP)—Who wins on these fabulous odds in the grand national steeplechase?

Russian Hero paid 203-1 on Totalisator for his runaway triumph in the National Saturday over Aintree's 30 breath-taking jumps. His starting price with bookies was 66-1.

Choice multiplying factors they were—if you had a few shillings on them. But who knew about this un-sung underdog who shocked 300,000 spectators?

We found one woman with a win and place ticket to cash at tote. They would earn her 125 pounds ($500) for a total risk of one pound ($4). She was Mrs. Bill Williamson, wife of the owner of Russian hero. Owner Bill wagered ten pounds ($40) several months ago at 300-1.

Marjoram is one of the annual garden herbs still popular. Dried leaves are used for poultry dressings. Sweet basil is good for flavoring soups and stews. Both grow easily from seed.

Chervil is a pot herb you encourter in cook books but seldom see. It is allied to parsley in flavor, but liked better by many cooks. Plant a packet and get a new flavor in soups and stews.

The dragon fly is one of the swiftest fliers in the insect world.

More than 40 different species of orchids grow in some states.

Chapter 10

An hour later, Raff and Ellen were leaving Bray's home and starting back for the campus. Raff had given Mrs. Bray a sedative. The Brays had no phone, so he had gone to a neighbor's to call the hospital to send one of the nurses over. The nurse was now with Mrs. Bray, and the boy, Jimmy, was being cared for by the neighbor.

Ellen sat limp and quite beside him in the car. He could see that she was genuinely attached to Mrs. Bray and that she was greatly affected by Bray's death. They were nearing a restaurant on the outskirts of the city. Raff pulled up to it.

"How would you like a cup of coffee?" She looked at him gratefully and nodded.

They went in, and to Raff's relief the place was almost empty. Now he could talk with her. They took a booth in the far corner of the room.

"Cigarette?" They each took one and sat there smoking until the waiter came up.

"Two cups of coffee—black," he ordered.

The waiter brought two steam-cups of coffee. Raff watched Ellen thoughtfully while they drank. Presently he asked, "How long have you been with the department?"

"Three and a half years."

"You thought a lot of Bray, didn't you?"

"Yes, I did," she said simply. "You have no idea what a wonderful person he was."

"Then why were you trying to avoid him that Sunday night?"

Ellen turned so that she faced him. She looked at him searchingly for a moment as if trying to read motives behind the questions.

"Believe me, it was nothing, absolutely nothing. I thought, quite mistakenly that I had seen him do something unethical, and I was too embarrassed and crushed to want to listen to an explanation."

"But he did give you an explanation that night?"

"Yes."

"And it was satisfying?"

"Very." She was staring at her coffee with narrowed eyes, as if remembering something painful.

Presently Raff asked, "How was Bray's health?"

"Very good. Why?"

"I was just wondering whether it might not have been suicide after all. You know if he had been in poor health and couldn't afford treatments or some such thing?"

"Oh, no—he's always been in excellent health. He was a very husky man. Did all sorts of manual labor."

"Then it's funny," Raff said slowly, "that five years ago he was in such poor health that he had to resign as chairman of the department and recommended Hubbard for the job."

The color drained quickly from Ellen's face. She stared at Raff, her mouth open but unresponsive.

"Ellen," he said kindly, "why are you trying to protect him?"

"Just why are you prying?" She demanded irritably. "I've told you I know nothing about it."

"I admire what you're doing—his voice was still kind—and I'm not trying to pry into your friend's secret. But don't you see that if Bray has been murdered the police will be called in, and they'll investigate every minute of his life?"

EISLER PUSHES HIS ATTACK ON HOUSE GROUP

By PAUL M. YOST

Washington, March 28 (AP)—Gerhart Eisler, alien Communist, today brought to the Supreme Court his legal battle to kill the House committee on un-American activities.

The committee called Eisler "the No. 1 Communist in the United States." Now Eisler wants the Supreme Court to declare unconstitutional the law establishing the committee. Further, he asks a ruling that the committee has no constitutional authority to compel any witness to testify.

If Eisler wins the Supreme Court to his views, he will escape serving a sentence of a year in jail and $1,000 fine for contempt of Congress. He was convicted of contempt on a government assertion that he refused to be sworn as a witness when called before the committee February 6, 1947.

Both File Briefs

The Justice Department called Eisler's attack on the committee "preposterous."

A Justice Department brief filed with the Supreme Court in advance of the hearing said that Eisler wanted to do what he had to say. All I want to do was get away from him. And that's when I ran into you."

of the oral arguments said: "The issue in this case x x x is not whether, in our opinion or in the court's opinion, the committee has been a good one or a bad one, or whether on some occasions it may have treated witnesses or others fairly or unfairly, or have acted partially or impartially."

"A possible—or a past—misuse of power lawfully granted does not warrant a denial of the power's existence. Nor does anything which has happened in the questioning or treatment of other witnesses warrant an assumption that a particular witness who refused to answer questions at all would be questioned unlawfully."

A brief filed by Eisler's attorneys disputed the government's statement that Eisler refused to be sworn. All that he wanted, Eisler's brief said, was to make a three-minute statement to the committee before

Ship's Crew Radios Gifts To Red Cross

Philadelphia, March 28 (AP)—The officers and crew of the USS Rochester, made sure their 1949 Red Cross contributions would be recorded before the campaign closes Thursday.

Yesterday from "somewhere on being sworn, Eisler's attorneys argued that the committee has been so effective that it not merely restrains speech, it threatens to destroy freedom of speech (and thus self-government) altogether."

The Rochester, a heavy cruiser being used as a reserve training ship, is manned by men from various parts of the country, but because its home base is here, the donations were earmarked for the southeastern Pennsylvania chapter, Captain Worthington explained.
